CENSORSHIP OF MOVIES PASSES
AFTER A FIGHT

Sixty-Two House Members Voted in Favor of Bill at Night Session

SEND FOR A SICK MAN

Supporters of Bill Muster Necessary Strength—Other Action of House

North Dakota is in a fair way today to have another commission—a moving picture commission—this time.

The house of representatives passed House bill No. 137, providing for the censorship of moving pictures, by a vote of 62 to 48 at its session last night. The house also strengthened the anti-cigarette law by making it unlawful to have on one's person an unusual quantity of cigarettes—intended for sale.

The movie bill was the star attraction of the night session, and debate on it drew some applause from the gallery. The vote was not entirely on party lines, although the charge was made that Nonpartisans were seeking passage of the bill so as to create a number of new jobs. One or two local women workers for the league have been mentioned as possible appointees of the governor to the board, if the bill becomes a law, although the board would sit in Fargo.

Speaker Twichell opposed the bill vigorously as a political measure pure and simple and Rep. Presler pointed to a law now on the statute books under which he said the attorney-general could prohibit the showing of immoral films. During the debate Speaker Twichell suggested that there might be another election soon. "How soon?" asked Rep. Whitmer. "It might be in sixty days," remarked the speaker.

There was some parliamentary jockeying before the bill came to vote. Rep. Presler moved that the bill be indefinitely postponed. Rep. Patterson moved that this motion be laid on the table and Rep. Miller said that while there were a majority of the representatives present in favor of the bill there was not a constitutional majority. He wished action deferred, but others asked a call of the house and used up considerable time while a hurry-up call was sent out for absent members. Rep. Burkhardt, who was absent and had been sick, was brought to the statehouse and soon there was a majority.

Many Oppose Bill. Many speakers were in favor of the bill. Including Rep. Miller, co-author with Representative Halckow, Representatives Patterson, Reichert, Vogel, Sherman and Walter Maddock and among those who opposed it on the floor were Representatives Boyd, Shipley and Sagen. They declared censorship of movies a necessity for the protection of the youth of the state. The house held a late session in an effort to dispose of as many bills as possible. It was not intended to have any bills on third reading this afternoon, a holiday, but the house was to devote itself to general orders.

Bills Acted Upon. Bills disposed of yesterday follow: H. B. 105—Relating to selection of county and state committee members. Passed 99 to 0. H. B. 197—Providing for non-political state ballot. Passed 68 to 46. H. B. 198—Providing method of nominating candidates for offices of presidential elector. United States congressmen, etc. Passed 61 to 45. H. B. 186—Amending constitution to provide ten-year term of office for supreme court judges. Passed 80 to 44.

H. B. 114—Judging state anti-injunction law conform to federal law. Passed 98 to 0. H. B. 158—Making more liberal provisions regarding Indians made citizens voting. Passed 101 to 0. H. B. 148—Making daylight robbery of bank a felony. Passed 107 to 0. H. B. 49—Providing for licensing of engineers. Indefinitely postponed. H. B. 206—Authorizing boards of county commissioners to issue refunding bonds to fund or refund for the purpose of purchasing seed grain. Passed 97 to 2.

H. B. 210—For an act to cancel uncollected personal property taxes assessed for 1910 and prior years. Passed 93 to 11. H. B. 141—Repeating act providing for twice a year payment of taxes. Defeated 15 to 51. H. B. 125—Defining corporate excess in joint stock companies. Passed 57 to 47. H. B. 123—Providing for state censorship of movies. Passed 52 to 48, with three absent. H. B. 189—Regulating the size of caboose cars. Passed 104 to 0. H. B. 158—Amending election law. Passed 101 to 0. H. B. 139—Amending law relative to county commissioners powers and duties with respect to contracts let on competitive bid. Passed 98 to 10. H. B. 19—Increasing salaries of workers' bureau commissioners. Continued on page 3)

McCOMBS DIES

TRIES TO PLACE
RESPONSIBILITY
IN BANK REPORT

Attorney for House Investigation Committee Seeks to Draw Parallel

TRACE POLITICAL LOANS

Attorney-General Gave Examiner Advice in Bank Matter, Testimony

An attempt was made to draw a "deadly parallel" between the testimony of M. W. Thatcher, accountant and O. E. Lofthus, state examiner, as to who was responsible for the report prepared for the supreme court on the Scandinavian-American bank was made before the house investigating committee today.

"You said that you had to a very large extent taken Mr. Thatcher's word for the figures," asked Attorney John Sullivan, of O. E. Lofthus, state examiner, who was on the witness stand.

"Yes, but I think the figures were correct," said Mr. Lofthus. "Mr. Lofthus said that the report was prepared in connection with legal proceedings contemplated. Mr. Thatcher had testified that when he began his work he did not know just what the purpose of his work was. Mr. Thatcher had said that Mr. Lofthus handled all of the cash of the Scandinavian-American bank before it closed, and that he relied on Mr. Lofthus for much information."

Gave Legal Advice. Mr. Lofthus was questioned as to the connection of William Lemke, attorney-general. He said Mr. Lemke (Continued on page 3)

FURS WORTH MILLIONS TO BE AUCTIONED

Failure of Dealers to Accept Consignments Causes Big Public Sale

St. Louis, Mo., Feb. 22.—Millions of furs, valued at more than $15,000,000, will be thrown on the market here tomorrow at the opening of the winter auction sale of the International Fur Exchange.

The sale will continue through March 5. It originally was scheduled to begin Oct. 4, and continue two weeks, but was postponed until Feb. 7, then until tomorrow, because, it was explained, of unsettled market conditions, due, in part, to the recent strikes of employees of eastern manufacturers of fur garments.

More than half the pelts to be disposed of it was said, will be sold in payments of indebtedness to the exchange. Several hundred dealers are debtors of the exchange. Albert A. Ahearn, vice president, amplified, because of inability to pay for consignments purchased at previous sales, due to the semi-demoralized market. Many of these firms are solvent, Mr. Ahearn added, and the exchange merely will resell their hands.

Included in the lots to be sold are 3,625,000 moles, 2,110,000 squirrels, 1,234,000 muskrat, and 726,000 opossum. Among the more valuable furs listed are 276,000 ermine, 8,700 Russian sable, 1,200 silver fox, and 2,300 sea otter.

It is expected that more than 800 buyers, a number from many foreign countries, will attend the sale.

ATTACK WILSON ON DEBS ORDER

Chicago, Feb. 22.—A statement denouncing the department of justice and President Wilson because Eugene Debs in the Atlanta federal prison had been denied his writing and visiting privileges was issued by Socialist headquarters today.

Orders reaching to his wife's letters were issued, it is charged, on order of President Wilson. The statement says: "It is the greatest joy of the Socialist party to number within its ranks the Lincoln of the twentieth century."

"The Socialist party proclaims this solidarity with the man who speaks his mind and the mind of the people millions in a time of hatred and travail."

OLDEST LOVERS IN AMERICA TELL YOU
HOW TO BE HAPPY THOUGH MARRIED

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Dick

Mr. and Mrs. Dick Have Been Happily Wedded 75 Years

They've Never Had a Quarrel and Give the Secret

(N. E. A. Staff Special.)

New York, Feb. 22.—The oldest lovers in the world are Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Dick of New York.

They have been married 75 years. They attribute their long lives to perfect love and perfect happiness.

In the spring, you know, young folks' fancies lightly turn to thoughts of love, and for the sake of the Easter brides and bridegrooms, the Dicks consented to tell the secret of how to be happy though married.

"First of all, you must forget there is such a thing as difference of opinion," said Jacob.

"Exactly so," said Sarah. "Opinion is character and you oughtn't to try to change the opinion of the one you love any more than you should try to change his character."

"Quite right," said Jacob. "My wife and I have never quarreled because neither of us pressed an issue when it seemed as if we might disagree."

"Entirely correct," said Sarah. "We left our troubles to time. Time, you know, settles all differences."

"Agreed," said Jacob. "Nowadays there's too much talk of free love. In fact, there's too much talk."

"That's a fact," said Sarah. "People think they have to think, and then they have to talk about what they think. That makes all the trouble."

"The right idea," said Jacob. "Once you've married a woman, stick. Put on the harness with the binders. Then you'll pull straight ahead."

"And pull together," said Sarah. "Too many young couples live as spoiled because they want different joys—and different sorrows."

"Correct," said Jacob. "Too many young people have too much leisure. Then they get around and get into trouble."

"Very true," said Sarah. "The wives should stick to their knitting."

"You're right," said Jacob. "And the husbands should stick to their jobs."

WILL PRESENT
NOTE DIRECTLY TO LEAGUE BODY

U. S. Government Gives Council Its Stand Regarding Mandates

Washington, Feb. 22.—The American government has presented directly to the council its demands that all allies and associated nations be given an equal opportunity in mandate territory.

It was announced today that a note virtually identical to the one sent to the British government last November has been sent to the council.

Decision to send the note was predicated on the understanding that the council was to act immediately upon the mandate.

Great Britain has never replied to Secretary Colby's note of last November, nor has the United States received copy of the mandate it requested be sent him. It is understood, however, that Great Britain has suggested that since the drafts for the mandates have been sent to the council that the note should go there.

In First Action. Washington, Feb. 22.—This is the first action initiated by the American government before the league council. It was explained that it served as a notice that while the United States was not a member it would not submit without a protest to any entanglement upon its rights since it was one of the nations which contributed to the common victory.

TROOPS ATTACK
TROTSKY TRAIN,
SAYS REPORT

Several of War Minister's Men Reported Wounded in Battle

Itza, Russia, Feb. 22.—A report from Moscow today says that Cossack troops attacked the railway train of Leon Trotsky, as it was traveling along the Moscow-Oranienburg railroad. Several of the war minister's train men were wounded. It is added.

ARREST TWO SUSPECTS IN MAIL ROBBERY

Woman Believed to Have Escaped With Part of Loot in Toledo Affair

Elkhart, Ind. Feb. 22.—Two men were arrested in connection with the Toledo, Ohio, mail robbery, but a woman is supposed to have escaped with portions of the loot.

Toledo, O. Feb. 22.—Government inspectors working to clear up the robbery announced that the robbers were responsible for theft of $800,000 in unregistered government bonds.

Young Government Aviator Sets Out on Continental Air Journey

CARRIES RABBIT FOOT

Unknown Girl Gives Him Good Luck Token—Reported at El Paso

San Francisco, Feb. 22.—W. F. Lewis, air mail service pilot, in the attempt to cover the continent, was killed today at Elko, Nevada, when his plane fell. Lewis was piloting one of the two planes which left San Francisco at 4:50 p. m. He took charge of the plane at Reno.

Jacksonville, Fla., Feb. 22.—Lieut. Wm. K. Coney will continue his transcontinental flight with a short delay at Bronte, according to a telegram received here by his mother from Wm. Jackson, manager of the Western Union at El Paso.

San Diego, Feb. 22.—Somewhere east of here and aviators hope in the air was Lieut. Daniel Coney, 24, who left here at 7 o'clock for Florida, in an attempt to fly across the continent in 24 hours. To do this he must reach his goal at 10 a. m.

Just before his departure a young woman who did not know the aviator, crowded forward and presented Coney with a rabbit foot. He thanked her and put it in his pocket. He is wearing electric-heated clothing and has a parachute attached to his flight. He plans only one stop in his flight—across it states—that at Dallas, Texas, at 7 a. m. this morning.

El Paso, Texas, Feb. 22.—An aeroplane believed to be the Haviland plane of Lieut. Coney passed over here at 2:20 a. m. today, flying high.

Dallas, Texas, Feb. 22.—Lieut. Wm. Coney, transcontinental flyer, was forced to land at Bronte, Cooke county, Texas, early today by engine trouble, according to reports received at Love Field. It was said the pilot was not injured.

San Francisco, Feb. 22.—Two mail service aeroplanes left here at 2:30 this morning, undertaking a record flight from San Francisco to New York. The flyers reached Reno at 6:45 o'clock, leaving immediately for points further east.

SUMMARY ORDER OF DISMISSAL
GIVEN EMPLOYEE

Dr. J. H. Worst Stops the Pay of Mozely, Accused Agent of Department

W. J. Mozely, immigration department agent, who was alleged to have entered into an arrangement while in the employ of the state department in South Dakota to get a commission on land sold through his efforts, has been dismissed summarily, according to Dr. J. H. Worst, commissioner of immigration.

Mozely, according to Dr. Worst, had been given notice of dismissal, effective March 1, but after the exposure of the letter he is alleged to have written, his pay was stopped yesterday, Dr. Worst said.

Dr. Worst pointed to circulars issued sometime ago by the department. One of these, dated Feb. 24, 1920, said, in part: "I want it also distinctly understood that no private arrangements shall be made or entered into with any private land agents either inside or outside of the state, with a view to throwing the game time we intend to throw no obstacle in the way of private real estate agents doing all the business they can, but they must do it on their own responsibility, and not through any business relations with the department of immigration."

"Do not fail to realize that you owe your service to the state and not to any private enterprise."

Another circular dated Jan. 9, 1920, also wanted the deputies against taking any commissions for any work done while on the payroll of the state.

CLOSURE SESSION. Fargo, Feb. 22.—The North Dakota Ministerial conference of the Norwegian Lutheran church of America closed a five-day conference here today with a discourse on the History of Israel by Dr. Johnson of the Lutheran Seminary of St. Paul and the discussion of problem relating to young people of the church.

DEER TRIES TO JUMP IN AUTO

While Representative Adam Presler, of Minot, and A. B. Carlson, of Minot, were driving along the brush at the banks of the Missouri river between Mandan and Bismarck Sunday night, two deer were dazzled by the glaring headlights on Presler's coupe and one, a frightened doe, attempted to leap over the car, striking and breaking two windows and leaving blood stains on the car. Before Presler could stop and return to the place he struck the deer, it regained its feet and sped away.

CATHRO READS
BANKS FAILING TO MEET DRAFTS

Senate Spends Most of Its Time Considering Appropriation Measure

The senate investigation committee yesterday afternoon listened to the testimony of F. W. Cathro regarding the banks that had refused to meet their drafts on the plea that they were short of funds.

A long list was read, including all of the correspondence by mail and telegraph regarding the transactions. The senate yesterday spent most of its time considering the appropriation bills, which it passed without material change from the bill reported by the appropriation committee. Bills killed or passed follows:

S. B. 128—Increasing legal reserve of banks.

S. B. 169—Relating to distribution of poll books.

S. B. 111—Relating to quorum at stockholders meetings.

S. B. 112—Regulating re-deposit of funds of state bank.

S. B. 180—Relating to annexation of districts by schools.

S. B. 185—Relating to formation of school districts.

S. B. 108—Providing for deposit of sinking funds in state banks.

S. B. 180—Prohibiting transfer of funds.

S. B. 194—Requiring of deposit of $50,000 by insurance companies doing business in the state.

S. B. 196—Relating to organization of fraternal insurance companies.

S. B. 174—Making roads in use 20 years public highways.

S. B. 129—Relating to mothers' pensions.

S. B. 176—Tax report as basis for fixing rates of public service corporations.

S. B. 20—Licensing automobile repairmen.

Bills Passed.

S. B. 173—Raising maximum salaries of county officials to $3,000 from $2,500, and making the salary range from $1,500 to $3,000.

Senator Murphy of Walsh, moved that the photograph of the family of Senator Church be published in the Journal. There are 12 in the family.

Bills Introduced.

S. B. 221—Baird—Restricting powers of pardon board in regard to persons convicted of first degree murder.

Bill Against Local Company Goes Through

House Passes Anti-Water Company Measure With Considerable Opposition

House bill No. 137, the first of a series of bills introduced in the legislature to enable the city to condemn the Bismarck Water Supply company's plant, passed the house, 35 to 34, last night.

There was not a great deal of debate on the measure. Rep. Semling, of Bismarck, spoke in favor of it. Rep. Bauer, of Sioux county, declared it was special legislation designed to aid one side in a local fight of conflicting interests. Rep. Girdell Patterson criticized some of the advocates of the measure. Speaker Twichell in voting against the bill said he opposed it because he didn't think it was safe legislation for North Dakota.

Complaint was voiced yesterday by representatives of the water company, who said a number of legislators requested a demonstration of water pressure, and that Commissioner Bertsch refused to permit the demonstration to be made without charge paid in advance. In answer to the contention Commissioner Bertsch declared the company representatives wanted to set their own conditions as to a test, and that he required that they pay the cost of calling on the fire department. He said that if the legislature wanted a regulation test the city would provide it without charge to anyone.

CANADA FARMERS GET $2.30. Ottawa, Feb. 22.—Canadian farmers received $2.30 for wheat during the war, while American farmers received $2.25. It was announced today.

REPORT HOOVER
OFFERED POST
OF COMMERCE

Former Food Administrator Is Expected to Accept the Proffer

DENBY'S NAME SURPRISE

Detroit Man Is Chosen for Secretary of the Navy—Senator Fall in It

St. Augustine, Feb. 22.—President-elect Harding completed his cabinet list today by the selection of Edward Denby, Detroit, secretary of the navy. The choice was the first big surprise among the cabinet selections, his name never having appeared in newspaper speculation about the post.

He is an attorney and a former member of Congress and has served an enlistment in both the navy and the marine corps during war time.

Herbert Hoover and James Davis of Pennsylvania virtually have been chosen for membership in the cabinet. A tentative offer of the portfolio of commerce has been made to Hoover and the general expectation is that the former food administrator will accept.

Mr. Davis, a former state worker and now a banker, is to be secretary of labor. It is believed that no final offer has been made to him although he has been asked to hold himself in readiness for the appointment.

It became known that all of the seven cabinet generally regarded as settled have been definitely decided upon. Charles E. Hughes, for secretary of state, and Harry M. Daugherty, for attorney general, have been announced.

The others are:—

Will Hays, Ind., for postmaster general.

John Weeks, Mass., for secretary of war.

Andrew Mellon, Pa., secretary of the treasury.

Henry Wallace, Iowa, secretary of agriculture.

Senator Fall, New Mexico, secretary of interior.

Denby Report.

New York, Feb. 22.—Herbert Hoover has not been asked to become a member of President-elect Harding's cabinet and his friends believe that the department of commerce offers no such field as the public institutions with which he is now connected, said a statement issued here by George Baker, identified with Mr. Hoover in relief work.

Mr. Hoover, at his office has said: "I have not received any invitation to become a member of Mr. Harding's cabinet. I am going to my office until 1 o'clock this afternoon. It is possible that the telegram might have been sent to me and delayed in delivering."

Mr. Hoover declined to say what would be his attitude.

FARM BUREAU
WILL CONSIDER
LABOR PROBLEM

Three States Join to Assist Farmers in Getting Harvest Hands

That some organized method of handling farm labor, particularly during rush seasons, will benefit both farmer and laborer was the consensus of opinion at a meeting of delegates from the state farm bureau federations of North and South Dakota and Minnesota held at Wheaton, Minn.

At this meeting recommendations were adopted asking that the executive committee of each federation establish a system of reporting so that information will be available at short intervals from every community in each of the three states as to supply and demand and prevailing wages in each of the three states. This information will be supplied to farmers, to the press, labor agencies, neighboring farm bureaus, and any others interested.

The North Dakota Farm Bureau Federation was represented at the conference by Sidney W. Honner of Fargo, South Dakota by W. C. Boardman of Aberdeen, farm help specialist, and Minnesota by State Treasurer V. E. Anderson of Wheaton. Officers of the Minnesota federation also attended the conference.

AGREE ON BILL. Washington, Feb. 22.—Senate and house conferees agreed today on the senate bill limiting immigration of aliens to 5 per cent of the number in the United States at the time the 1921 census was taken for the 15 months beginning next April.

HOME RULE NOON. London, Feb. 22.—Home rule in Ireland will be put into effect April 7, according to the privy council.

WISCONSIN DEFEATS. Columbus, Feb. 22.—Wisconsin defeated Ohio State 42 to 25, in a big ten basketball game.

TILTON BACK AFTER ABSENCE OF 8 MONTHS

Wing Farmer Does Not Remember What He Did During Journeys

TREATED AT ABERDEEN

Operation Brings Him to a Realization of His Own Identity

Bert Tilton, a Burleigh county farmer, 40 years of age, has been restored to his family of seven at Wing, after eight months' absence. He remembers nothing of his travels or work since he left. Treatment by a physician in Aberdeen brought him back to a realization of his real identity. He is perfectly well now. A daughter of Mr. Tilton, Miss Verna Tilton, is connected with the Bismarck hospital.

Doctor Called.

Ever since June of last year, Tilton has been missing from his home and not until Saturday following a treatment in the office of Dr. O. Arthur Carr he has been able to recall where he lives.

He remembers now that he left his home to go to a hospital at Rochester, Minn., and it is believed that since the day of his departure he has not been heard of while his wife and other relatives have spent many months without stint in an effort to locate him.

He arrived in Aberdeen on Thursday last and went to the Elvaco hotel registering as "A. Ross." He was taken ill there with pain in the back of his head and was advised to visit Dr. Carr and secure treatment. He told the doctors his name was "A. Ross" but could not give his home address. That afternoon he received the first administration at the hands of the doctor and on Friday received the second. The pain in his head which was at the back at the base of his skull relieved the trouble. Following a treatment on Saturday, he said he felt very tired and the doctor advised him to go into a small room next the operating room and lie down. He followed that advice and fell asleep. Two hours later, Dr. Carr, wondering whether his patient was still sleeping, entered the room, aroused Tilton, who sat up, rubbed his eyes and when the doctor remarked: "Well, Mr. Ross, how do you feel?" "Why do you call me Mr. Ross?" "That was the name you gave me when you first called," replied the doctor.

"Well, that is not my name. I am Bert Tilton. My home is at Wing, North Dakota. I am a carpenter by trade, but I moved onto a farm near Wing, where my wife and family are. What town is this?" said Tilton. "Aberdeen, South Dakota" was the reply.

"I thought it was Wing. How long have I been here?"

Talks of Past.

He was advised as to that and then he and Dr. Carr talked of the past. The man remembered having left his home to go to Rochester, but since entering an institution there for medical treatment, he can recall nothing. He is well supplied with money and when he found greenbacks of denominations up to $100 in his vest and trouser pockets, and was asked where he got that money he remembered that he is a carpenter by trade, that he followed that vocation before he went to the farm and concluded that during the past nine months he had been working as a carpenter at good wages. He accounted for the pain in his head by saying that it had been the result of an accident in his youth. He is unable to remember, however, where he worked last, or where he purchased the clothing which he has, or how he came to Aberdeen, after his memory had been restored, but he had no difficulty in naming it when he first called on Dr. Carr.

It is expected that a telegram message to his wife will bring either her or some other relative to Aberdeen today and then an effort will be made to restore to Tilton's bank of life, the page which will cover his history for the past nine months. He is in good health.

Dr. Carr said Sunday that the incident had started him, somewhat, but that there has been prolonged pressure upon some nerve in the man's brain which had caused his prolonged lapse of memory.

Mind Was a Blank. Further revelation of complete loss of memory was revealed when he expressed astonishment at being told that Harding had been elected president of the United States. He recalled having heard Cox mentioned sometime as a presidential candidate, but had no knowledge of the election results on last November. Among his effects yesterday he found a hat which had been purchased by someone in Huron, but he does not recall buying it. He also found a letter head, bearing the name of a firm in Casper, Wyo., but he does not remember ever having been there.

It was learned also that his wife had advertised for him in Fargo, N. D. newspapers. He said to Dr. Carr when they first met, that he had never been married, but on Saturday he recalled his family.

His trouble is scientifically known as sub-laxation of the axis. Dr. Carr made X-ray pictures of his spine yesterday in order to study the nature of the trouble.

TRIES TO PLACE RESPONSIBILITY IN BANK REPORT

(Continued from page 1.) advised him at the time of the preparation for the suit to the supreme court to open up the Scandinavian bank. He suggested during the questioning that Mr. Lofthus was confusing the examination and the report to the supreme court.

Well, Mr. Lofthus had charge of the legal end and whatever legal advice you wanted you got from him," questioned Sullivan.

"Yes." Questions Lofthus. "Mr. Lofthus, questioning O. E. Lofthus, state bank examiner, took reports made to Mr. Lofthus' office by examiners, continuing his line of questioning began yesterday with reference to alleged 'league paper,' which was banked in certain banks through backing of the state bank. The first was the 'P. C. Jahake transaction'."

Jahake's Deal. P. C. Jahake, according to the report of an examiner of the state department, examining the People's State bank of Casselton, was holder of 68 shares of stock and director of the bank. Tracing the 68 shares of stock, for which Jahake appeared to have given a note of $6,075 to the bank, page 61 of the Bishop, Bismarck and company report showed that Jahake had borrowed $7,264 of the Scandinavian-American bank and given the shares of stock in the Casselton bank as collateral.

The Scandinavian-American bank then turned it to the Bank of North Dakota, according to Mr. Sullivan.

Another note in the Casselton bank was for $5,220, with collateral stock in the Behring Seas Fisheries, endorsed by H. J. Hagen of the Scandinavian-American bank in Fargo. The deputy examiner had criticized this.

"Is it approved to permit loaning of money by state banks to industries having fisheries in the Behring sea," asked Mr. Sullivan.

"There are times when it might be approved," the examiner said. Further examination showed a certificate of deposit issued to H. J. Hagen for $5,220, dated Aug. 3, 1920.

Mr. Sullivan traced the certificate of deposit of H. J. Hagen's two collateral in the Bank of North Dakota. The deputy examiner, in his report to Mr. Lofthus' office, declared that it looked as if some of the paper had been had loans had been introduced underhandedly and by outside pressure.

"Would you agree with the conclusion of your examiner?" Mr. Lofthus was asked.

"Yes," he replied. Mr. Sullivan then sought to trace the Behring Seas Fisheries loan to the Bank of North Dakota. The Behring Seas Fisheries company gave a note to the Scandinavian-American bank and this bank turned it to the Bank of North Dakota.

"I have interpreted this correctly have I not?" asked Mr. Sullivan. "Yes," replied Lofthus.

Mr. Sullivan then endeavored to show that the large amount of deposits made by the Bank of North Dakota to the Casselton bank just about equaled the political loans made by the Casselton bank.

Mr. Sullivan then endeavored to show that the large amount of deposits made by the Bank of North Dakota to the Casselton bank just about equaled the political loans made by the Casselton bank.

Adding up the loans Mr. Sullivan reached a total of about $50,000, including the Hastings, Box, Sherman, League Exchange, etc., loans and net liabilities of about $48,000 by the Casselton bank to the Bank of North Dakota.

"They were entitled to some redemptions were they not?" asked Mr. Lofthus.

Mr. Lofthus showed the examiner's report on the People's State Bank of Hillsboro, shows in excellent shape. This bank, Mr. Lofthus said, was not a "league bank."

J. P. McAnaney, director of the credit department of the Bank of North Dakota, was called as a witness. He said that his business had to do with the making of all loans to the banks. Mr. McAnaney said that he was well acquainted with the bank, having formerly been a deputy bank examiner.

He said that sometimes he made loans to banks himself and sometimes he took the matter before the finance committee, composed of Mr. Cathro, chairman, A. Johansen and himself.

Mr. McAnaney was asked about his trip to Florida about a year ago, at about the time of J. R. Waters' resignation as manager of the Bank of North Dakota. Asked with whom he had discussed the proposed trip he named Mr. Cathro and Ray Craig, then state manager of the Nonpartisan league. The witness said that Ray Craig called him on the telephone from Fargo, and that he went to Fargo to discuss the trip suggested by Craig and that he returned to Bismarck and left for Miami, Fla. He said he told Mr. Cathro he was going but didn't say what for.

Mr. McAnaney said when he got to Florida he saw J. R. Waters and J. W. Brinton, the old North Dakota people there of his acquaintance. Answering a question from Mr. Sullivan, the witness said that he wasn't particularly anxious to disclose his whereabouts, but he was not sure whether he registered under an assumed name or not.

HIS TROUBLE IS ALL GONE. "I was affected with pains all over my back and kidneys," writes Charles McAllister, 1 Clark Ave., Kearney, N. J. "After three or four doses of Foley Kidney Pills I became all right and my pain is all gone." ## S. D. SOLDIERS TO GET CASH SERVICE BONUS

Legislature Vote Veterans $15 a Month, Limited to Total of $400

Pierre, S. D., Feb. 22.—The soldiers' bonus bill passed the senate Thursday afternoon without a dissenting vote, and is now before the house for final action. One attempt was made to amend the bill by cutting down the number of members of the board to be in charge of the bonus from five to three but this was lost. The bill passed as presented and bore the stamp of approval of the American Legion of the state.

By the provisions of the bill every honorably discharged "South Dakota soldier, sailor, marine or army nurse who served with the armed forces of the United States, in the World War, or other wars of the United States, including those who served in the Allied armies against the Central powers in the World War, and who have been honorably discharged and repatriated, are to be paid under the provisions of the bill.

It is provided that in order to gain benefit under the bill a person must have served at least sixty days and was at the time of such service a resident of the state of South Dakota and was a resident during a period of ninety days immediately preceding the date of his enlistment induction or commission. This includes those who served in the Spanish-American war and the Philippine insurrection.

To those there will be paid a sum of $15 for each month in the service and fifty cents for each additional day in the service over full months, but no person is to receive more than $400 under the provisions of the act. The bill also takes in yomanettes, but does not apply to those who served in any of the many institutions as welfare workers.

The bill carries with it an appropriation of $25,000 to provide for the operation of the board, which will be known as the Soldiers' Compensation Board, which will be composed of the governor who will be ex-officio chairman; the state treasurer, who will be treasurer of the board and three other members to be designated by the governor. One of these persons will be secretary and one an executive officer.

The members of the board who are not state officers shall each furnish a bond of $5,000. The executive officer and the secretary shall receive such compensation as may be fixed by the board and approved by the governor, and the other member shall receive $5 per day while actually engaged in the performance of duties and actual and necessary expenses.

The board is authorized to borrow money and issue bonds of the state up to $5,000,000 which will bear the designation of Soldiers' Compensation Bonds of South Dakota. There was absolutely no argument on the bill. Senator Crawford simply and concisely presented the salient features of the measure to the senate. A few questions were asked, Senator Swenson of Turner offered the amendment to cut down the personnel of the

THREE HUNDRED RAID RABBITS AND COYOTES

Three hundred Sheridan county men were engaged in a big coyote drive in Lamont and Helman townships and as a result killed two coyotes and 500 jackrabbits.

Although about 300 men were engaged in the drive, they were not sufficient to guard the lines close enough to prevent most of the coyotes from slipping through. However, the drive was successful as a jackrabbit hunt, 500 of them being killed. It was a great day for the boys and the men, too, enjoyed the drive although some of them were as stiff the next day that they could hardly move.

The drive ended at about 2:30, and a dinner was eaten at a nearby farm. The two coyotes were auctioned off and brought $18, which will be donated to the Children's Home at Fargo.

When one stops to consider, it is pointed out, the amount of grain that 500 jackrabbits will eat and the number of trees they will kill by gnawing off all the bark in reach, it is evident that drives of this kind are of a great value to the community.

MINNESOTA SEEKS TO REFORM SYSTEM OF GRAIN MARKETING

St. Paul, Feb. 22.—Julius H. Barnes of Duluth, former director of United States Grain corporation and generally recognized as the foremost authority on grain marketing in this country is in the Twin Cities as a champion of the present organized exchange system of the grain trade which he held faultless in some respects but nevertheless the most efficient commodity selling agencies in the world.

Speaking before an audience of more than 500 persons in Minneapolis most of them delegates to the annual meeting of the Minnesota Grain Dealers' association who were attending a banquet given by Minneapolis grain commission men, he urged that the grain trade itself take steps that enable a farmer to finance his fall operations through a system of warehouse receipts.

Appeals to Senators.

"Such action, he indicated, would make it possible for the farmer to escape a sellers' market inevitable under present conditions.

After in the day he appeared before the Minnesota senate agricultural committee and pleaded that bills before that body which are designed to eliminate gambling in foodstuffs be defeated because their passage, he said, would strike at the very foundations on which the present grain marketing machinery has been built from practically nothing to a position where they give the "greatest public service in our whole economic structure."

The burden of Mr. Barnes' argument before the senate committee was that to submit the exchanges to rigid regulation would eliminate the present "business conscience" which stimulates a sense of fair play. Those who did not agree with him said his position could be summed up in the words: "Let us alone."

Clashes With South Dakota.

At the close of Mr. Barnes' plea that the legislation be defeated, his offer to answer questions led to considerable spirited debate, the outstanding feature of which was a clash with J. E. Kelley, St. Paul former South Dakota representative in Congress and for many years a proponent of co-operative marketing.

Mr. Kelley, taking up a statement by Mr. Barnes that the average price of wheat was the "pool quotation," plus the cost of getting it there, charged that at one time before the United States entered the war wheat was selling here for 30 cents under what it would have been had that rule held true. Outlets, he said, were not within 10 to 15 cents of that theoretical price.

"What's the answer?" Mr. Kelley asked.

"The answer is," replied Mr. Barnes, "that the statement is not true. No such."

"Big Money" Offered.

"It is true," Mr. Kelley declared forcefully, "and I can prove it by Chicago Board of Trade figures. I'll bet you $1,000 I can."

"Nevertheless," continued Mr. Barnes, "it is not true, and while betting never will settle this question, I'll agree to explain any set of figures which may indicate such a condition or I'll give $1,000 to any charity you may name."

T. E. Cashman, on the legislative committee of the Minnesota Farm Bureau federation, which is backing the anti-gambling bills, asked Mr. Barnes if he did not believe that the outspoken gambler could be separated from the legitimate trader or even the speculator. "We are after the gambler, not the speculator," Mr. Cashman said.

Mr. Barnes replied that he did not see how it could be done, as such a proposal would ask speculators to carry the risk during the marketing season and at the same time prevent their selling at other times when they considered the market too high.

Defends "Short Selling."

Mr. Cashman gave special consideration to the farmers' complaint that the price of cash grain is pounded down by the sale of "wind." "Do you think it advisable to permit such men as Armour and Livermore to sell millions and millions of bushels of theoretical grain—grain that does not even exist?"

In his answer, Mr. Barnes pointed out that all such grain had to be bought back and that the process of evening up trade resulted in a stronger market.

"The injustice, as I see it," said Mr. Barnes, "is that at such times owners of actual grain often are obliged to 'lose' their equity." In defending the short selling practice, he said that the last ten days had demonstrated how the evening up of future sales brought on higher markets. "We have had an upturn of 25 cents," he said, "and the market at Liverpool has hardly changed."

Terms It Minor Evil.

Senator Magnus Johnson of Kimball, and C. W. Gillam of Cottonwood also participated in the discussion. In answer to Mr. Johnson's question as to whether he defended the practice of selling millions and millions of bushels of phantom grain, Mr. Barnes replied that he looked on it as an evil, but a minor one; in view of the great service the exchanges gave. He would not admit that there is any possibility of even restricting the operations of speculators without greatly damaging the hedging privilege.

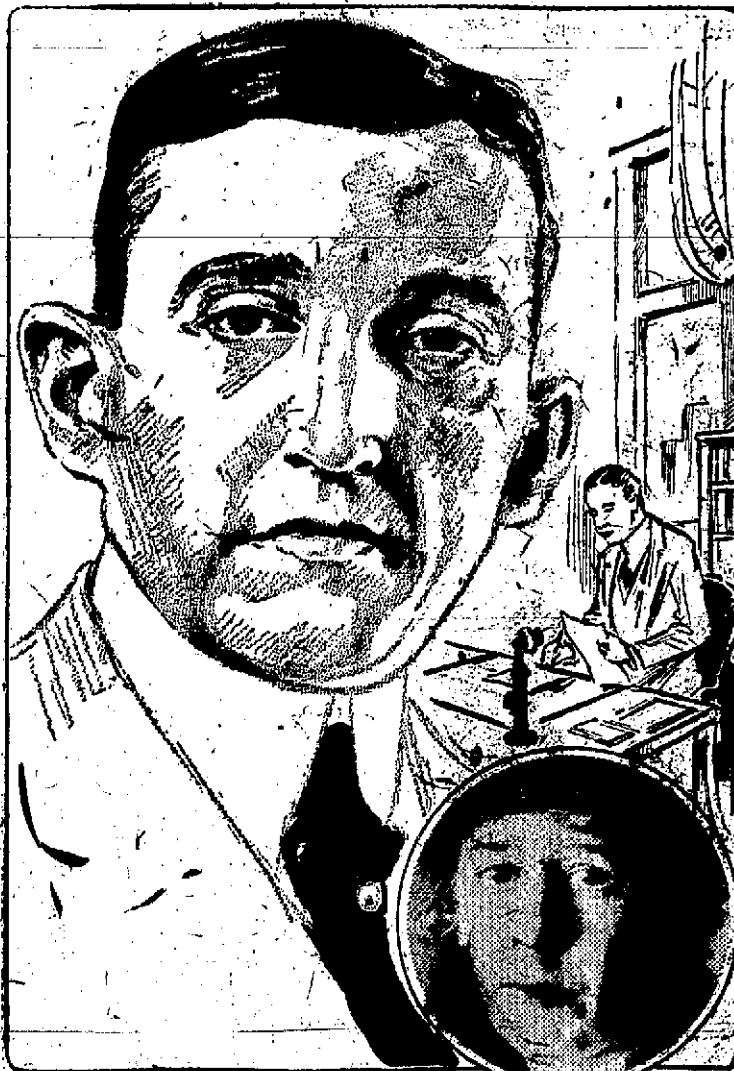

Mr. Barnes held that the operation of the exchanges had been directly responsible for rural prosperity in this country, because it has given producers a steady market for their products. Deals in futures and hedges, he said, are primarily responsible for the low "trade" prices that are taken in justification of the present marketing machinery, he pointed out that whereas butter is sold on a basis of around 10 per cent, grain is handled for about 1 per cent.

Rail Case Held Example.

In arguing against rigid regulation, he cited the railroad problem as an example of what happens when a government attempts to administer to business beyond the point where fair play is assured.

"As fair-minded men," he said last night, "we must seek improvements that will aid the producer. He needs all the help he can get. Confusedly, he feels that he has not an adequate influence in marketing time or place. In some sections, under guise of the co-operative movement, he is seeking by combination to so control the flow

HAYS' HIGH SPOTS.

AGE—41.
BIRTHPLACE—Sullivan, Ind.
EDUCATION—Wabash College.
PROFESSION—Lawyer.
WIFE—Miss Helen Louise Thomas, married in 1902.
CHILDREN—One, Will H. Hays, Jr., 5.
RELIGION—Presbyterian.
ORDERS—Member and national president of the Phi Delta Theta fraternity; Mason; member of numerous clubs in Indianapolis and elsewhere.
(N. E. A. Staff Special.)
Indianapolis, Feb. 22.—There seems to have been only one event in the life of Will Hays, national Republican chairman, who is slated for Postmaster General in President Harding's cabinet, that has not in some way been connected with politics.

That was his birth.

He was born on the day after Election Nov. 5, 1879, making him 41. But he cast his first vote on his birthday.

Hays spent much of his boyhood in his father's law office, where he absorbed law and a great deal of politics. Before he was 21, he was a precinct committeeman, and at 23 had made a losing race for prosecuting attorney.

Honors Come Fast.

After that political honors came thick and fast. He was first county chairman, then district chairman, next Indiana state chairman and finally national Republican chairman—the youngest man ever to hold that office.

Hays has two chief aides in "politicizing," the telephone and the taxicab. When Bell invented the telephone he must have had Hays in mind.

Hays drops into the office of a governor or political leader in the middle or far west. Some argument comes up during the conversation about what, say Elihu Root had said on some subject relating to the party. Does Hays argue? Not he. He puts in a long distance call for Root at Washington or elsewhere and settles the matter.

When Hays spent considerable time in Indianapolis, his table in the Severin hotel dining room was furnished with a long distance phone and he talked with Chicago and New York between bites.

Taxis Everywhere.

No matter how short the distance to go Hays rides in a taxicab. He always taxis from the state house in Indianapolis to the Severin, five blocks away. And fine chances out if ten he writes part of a speech or a letter on the way.

When the recent investigation of national campaign expenses was on some Indiana was said to be surprised—no doubt Hays' taxicab bills during his campaign amounted to hundreds of thousands.

Hays is a member of the law firm of Hays and Hays at Sullivan. For many years he has taught a class of boys at the Presbyterian Sunday school in Sullivan and some time ago was made an elder of that church.

He was graduated from Wabash college in 1900 with a B. A. degree and received the degree of M. A. in 1904.

Lincoln didn't get much more out of his birthday than Hays has for it was on Feb. 22, 1914, that he was made Republican state chairman of Indiana and Feb. 22, 1918, that he was elected Republican national chairman.

Time in? Years ago a physician advised him to take up golf. His health, he has played five in a summer. Politics is recreation enough, he says.

Give Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin to a constipated child and note its quick recovery.

In a growing family the subject of thought with the parents is how to keep the children healthy and happy, and what to do when they become ill. Most illnesses of childhood are the symptoms of constipation, such as headaches, coated tongues, flatulence, dizziness, loss of appetite and sleep, biliousness, etc.

You can surely feel safe in doing what tens of thousands of others do with good results, so give, according to the age of the child, a small quantity of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Eight million bottles were bought last year at drug stores. It is America's favorite family remedy for constipation, indigestion and similar ills, and is especially suitable for children, women and old folks as it is so mild and gentle in action.

There is no secret about Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It is a combination of Egyptian Senna and other simple laxative herbs with pepsin and pleasant tasting aromatics. Druggists have sold it for thirty years, and a sixty cent bottle will last for months. Experienced mothers are never without it in the house.

Today's Aid to Beauty

Hair is by far the most conspicuous thing about us and is probably the most easily damaged by bad or careless treatment. If we are very careful in hair washing, we will have virtually no hair troubles. An especially fine shampoo for this weather, one that brings out all the natural beauty of the hair; that dissolves and entirely removes all dandruff, excess oil and dirt, can easily be used at trifling expense by simply dissolving a teaspoonful of canthrox (which you can get at any drugist's) in a cup of hot water. This makes a full cup of shampoo liquid—enough so it is easy to apply it to all the hair instead of just the top of the head. This chemically dissolves all impurities and creates a soothing, cooling lather. Rinsing leaves the scalp spotlessly clean, soft and pliant, while the hair takes on the glossy richness of natural color, also a fluffiness which makes it seem much heavier than it is. After a canthrox shampoo, arranging the hair is a pleasure.

Eczema
Baby, nearly 2, has had a very hard time cutting his teeth. On his face is something like eczema. The physician claims it comes from his teeth. It is now cropping out on his arms and legs. Medicine and salve given by the physician does no good. The baby is still nursing a bottle, sterilized cow's milk.

Eczema is a very chronic disease, easily improved but not so easily cured. Any neglect of local treatment, or digestive disturbance, or overfeeding, may bring on a relapse. Ask your doctor to give you explicit directions regarding the care and treatment, including feeding, free drinking of water, any tendency to constipation, protection of the skin, clothing, prevention of scratching, and exact method of applying the drugs he ordered.

Epilepsy (Grand Mal)
Our little boy has had epilepsy of the grand mal type since 12 months old. The spasms are coming closer together. He is six years and eight months old.

The standard drugs used by practically all physicians in the treatment of epilepsy are, as far as we know now, the best means of controlling the attacks. The child's diet should be light with meat allowed only once a day and in moderate amount. He may drink milk or buttermilk, but no tea or coffee. Green vegetables and fresh fruits may be given freely. Under no circumstances must he be allowed to become constipated. Keep him out of doors as much as possible and free from excitement. He should lead a simple, regular life, with a daily bath and plenty of sleep. Have him taught at home rather than at school.

GEORGE WASHINGTON, FIRST

Every schoolchild has heard:

"George Washington, first in war, first in peace, and first in the hearts of his countrymen."

And they have come to know him as a general, a statesman, and beloved by his fellowman.

There were other sides of Washington. In them, too, he was first, which is to say he was in the foremost rank.

"He was very exact in all business as well as very shrewd at a bargain," writes Historian Henry Cabot Lodge. "And the tradition is that his neighbors considered the general a formidable man in a horse trade, that most difficult of all transactions."

We imagine that, were our modern captains of industry to devote their attention to horse-trading, they might prove very formidable at it. Washington's business was farming.

"He managed his plantations entirely himself," says Lodge in his biography of the first president, "and did it well. He knew the qualities of each field, and the rotation of its crops. No improvement in agriculture and no ingenious invention escaped his attention."

It is probable that were Washington alive today, and on his farm, his would be a machine-farm. The tractor would have replaced the horse, the scrub stock would not be tolerated.

He was, you observe, first in farming.

But that last of all of this many-sided first president.

He was first in dressing.

His youthful fancy strongly leaned toward handsome dress, Senator Lodge assures us, adding "he never ceased to take an interest in it. He had the best possible taste and the keenest sense of what was appropriate."

How many of our good farmers also are immaculate dressers?

How many of the world's great generals also are formidable horse traders?

How many of our able business men are good farmers?

How many of our presidents have been good business men?

And how FEW of our best dressers are presidents, generals, captains of industry, leading farmers? Only one American has been first in all.

That man of many firsts was born 189 years ago today, at Bridges Creek, Va.

THE CHERRY TREE

Despite the efforts of certain historians to kill it, the story of George Washington and the cherry tree goes marching on, like truth itself.

Henry Cabot Lodge denounces as a mere "myth-maker" Parson Weems, the man who first told the cherry tree story which, according to Lodge, is "hopelessly and ridiculously false."

Nevertheless, confectionary windows just now are blossoming with candied cherries, symbols of the birthday of the Father of His Country. And is not the little hatchet being sold in many varieties of colored cardboard? And is not the dear old story to be re-told in every common school of the land?

Old Weems may have been a fraud and the cherry tree story a myth, but what's the odds?

There have even been folks who have made so bold as to say that Santa Claus is a myth and yet Santa Claus continues to flourish, doing his good work annually and ignoring the critics.

And just as sure as there is a Santa Claus, there was once a cherry tree, and George Washington chopped it down, later confessing truthfully to the deed.

Moreover, let destructive historians remember this: Long after their dusty books are forgotten, Parson Weems' cherry tree story still will set before the youth of the land America's best example of truth-telling.

THOUGHT IN ACTION

How many times have you faced the fact that someone else has made use of "your" idea?

In other words, how many times has the other fellow "beat you to it?"

If you are an advertising man it is probable that you have found in the newspapers an idea fully worked out which you had been turning over in your mind.

If you are a merchant or a manufacturer it is more than likely that you have suddenly discovered a merchandising idea which you had evolved and meant to use soon.

If you are a novelist, an essayist, a painter, a composer, or a sculptor it is probable that some time in your career you have been chagrined to discover that some one else has had an idea which you thought was your exclusive property and has got that idea before the public while you were still thinking about it.

The history of human thought is full of instances where two or more men were working on the same idea where the one who reaped the rewards was the one who brought his idea first before the public.

The patent office and the international copyright, especially the former, are in existence because ideas are not exclusive properties occurring to only one man. Two, five, a dozen men unknown to each other and separated by thousands of miles may be working on the same new idea.

The successful man is the man who first translates his thought into action.

He is the man who when an idea comes to him sets himself immediately to the task of realizing his idea as something other than a mental fancy.

An idea which is not in action, which is not materialized, is nothing more than a mental toy.

It is useful, worthy, and profitable only when it is a visible fact.

YOUR CHILD'S TEACHER

"The teacher shortage is just as serious as it was a year ago," announces Philander P. Claxton, United States commissioner of education. "What material shall be used to fill these thousands of vacancies? The people must decide. The children are theirs, the wealth is theirs, the schools are their agents. It is up to them."

What is to be done about it?

1—Pay adequate wages!

You can't expect one who has spent money and time in special training to be attracted to a job that will not pay living expenses.

The fact that many teachers love their work is no excuse for putting it on a charity basis.

The commercial world makes a high bid for ability.

2—Better opportunities for training will help.

Two years of normal work in each four year high school course would aid in supplying fine-equipped teachers.

3—A general reorganization of normal schools with respect to their duty toward the rural teacher is needed.

"The country teacher has to take the crumbs," laments one specialist. With more than 200,000 one-teacher schools in the United States, the rural schoolman probably has the hardest row of all to hoe.

She is cut off from her friends and deprived by distance of many cultural resources a true teacher loves and needs.

Consolidation cuts down the number of vacancies, likewise the number of salaries to be paid. It benefits the pupil. It helps the teacher.

Can we afford to employ teachers of the better sort?

Can we afford not to?

RAILROAD STRAITS

W. W. Atterbury, vice-president of the Pennsylvania and chairman of the Labor Committee of the Association of Railway Executives, enumerates to the Federal Railway Labor Board thirty-six railroads which in January did not earn their operating expenses. Not to earn even operating expenses means not to get enough revenue to pay all wages, coal bills and other costs of current supplies, etc., and among the carriers which were in such a plight during January were seasoned dividend payers like the Great Northern, the Northern Pacific and the Reading railways.

There were as well twenty-eight roads which earned their operating expenses but did not take in enough to pay interest on their debts, taxes, etc. Among these roads was even the great and powerful Pennsylvania system, with others like the Baltimore and Ohio, Lehigh Valley and Southern.

It is the working conditions, not the wage scales, fastened upon the American railway system in the disastrous period of Government operation which in this industrial depression are making it impossible for the strongest railroads in the country to earn their interest charges, their taxes, their coal costs, even their payrolls. If the United States Railroad Labor Board does not respond to this situation, if the railway wage earners do not cooperate to bring a quick adjustment of this calamity record, they themselves cannot escape a head-on collision which will maim railroad workers from one end of this land to the other.

Bankruptcy revenue spells wholesale, merciless and inevitable slaughter of the payrolls. The railway workers don't want that; the roads don't want it; the public doesn't want it. But only immediate and adequate action on the impossible working conditions and inequalities can stop it.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By Oliver Roberts Barton.

(Copyright, 1921, N. E. A.)
Down through the starlit pool sank Nancy and Nick, still clutching their precious Box of Charms. Having on their Magical Green Shoes they felt no discomfort under the Nick promptly and quietly closed the little door, not noticing the fat green frog that had hopped in, too.

Just as their little Star-Friend had told them up in the sky, they found a small door, so tiny indeed that they had to wish themselves as small as the tiniest tadpole before they could find the keyhole. Nick turned the key and the door flew open. They stepped inside quickly.
They were in the secret passage called the Cave of Gems that led to the South Pole.
"Do shut that door," snapped a voice. "The drafts are blowing all the curl out of my hair; then it gets into my eyes and I can't write poetry!" Nick promptly and quietly closed the little door, not noticing the fat green frog that had hopped in, too. Then he and Nancy waited to be greeted. They had been taught to wait until they were spoken to. Besides it was rather dark, although a faint glow showed them that they were in a cavern with a high-arched ceiling and straight, polished walls. Where the voice came from they could not tell, as the room or cave appeared to be empty of any occupant save themselves.
"What are your names?" asked the voice.
"Nancy and Nick," the little boy answered politely.
"And what do you look like?"
"I can't see us?" asked Nancy in surprise. "We're right here."
"Oh, you are, are you? Well, how do you expect me to see you with Bobadil's Washing Ring on your finger?"
Nick looked down in surprise. It was true! He still had the wicked Jin's ring and he and Nancy were invisible. He turned it hastily.
"That's better!" said the voice. "You are nice looking youngsters, aren't you?"

WASHINGTON'S FUNERAL TOLD IN ARTICLE

By Oliver Roberts Barton.

Joplin, Mo., Feb. 22.—A newspaper account of the funeral of George Washington was uncovered here recently by Mrs. E. H. Coats of this city when she found a copy of the Utster County Gazette, published at Kingston, Utster county, New York, January 4, 1800, in which the story of the funeral was printed. The paper was discovered in an old trunk containing family heirlooms and gives the following description of the funeral:

"In the long and lofty Portico where off the hero walked in all his glory, now lay the shrouded corpse. The countenance still composed and serene, seemed to depress the dignity of the spirit, which lately dwelt in that lifeless form. There those who paid the last honors to the benefactor of his country, took an impressive farewell view."

"On the ornament of the head of the coffin was inscribed 'Surge de Judicium'—about the middle of the coffin, 'Gloria Dno'—and the silver plate, 'General George Washington, departed this life on the 14th of December, 1799.'"
"Between 3 and 4 o'clock the sound of artillery from a vessel in the river, firing minute guns, awake, aresh our solemn sorrow—the body was removed—a band of music with mournful melody melted the soul into all the tenderness of woe."

Then follows a long descriptive account of the procession, in which Washington's horse with his saddle, halter and pistols followed the casket which was mounted on an artillery wagon.

Continuing the article says: "When the procession had arrived at the bottom of the elevated lawn on the bank of the Potomac, where the family vault is placed, the cavalry halted, the infantry marched toward the mound and formed their lines—the clergy, the Masonic brothers and the citizens, descended to the vault and the funeral of the church was performed. The firing was repeated

Makes a Family Supply of Cough Remedy

Really better than ready-made cough syrups and saves about 85%.

It is easily prepared in a few minutes.

Get from any druggist 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex, pour it into a bottle and fill the bottle with syrup, using either plain granulated sugar-syrup, clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, as desired. The result is a full pint of really better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for three times the money. Tastes pleasant and never spoils.

The Pinex and Syrup preparation gets right at the cause of a cough and gives almost immediate relief. It loosens the phlegm, stops the nasty throat tickle and heals the sore, irritated membranes so gently and easily that it is really astonishing.

A day's use will usually overcome the ordinary cough and for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness and laryngeal asthma, there is nothing better.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations to break up severe coughs.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2 1/2 ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

from the 'vestibule' of the river and the sounds echoed from the woods and hills around.

"Three general discharges by the infantry—the cavalry and 11 pieces of artillery which lined the banks of the Potomac back of the vault, paid the last tribute to the entombed commander-in-chief of the armies of the United States and the departed hero.

"The sun was now setting. Alas! The sun of glory was set forever. No—the name of Washington—the American president and general—will triumph over death! The unclouded brightness of his glory will illuminate the future."

FARMERS VOTE FOR DUTY-FREE LUMBER

In referendum vote which has just been completed by the Grand Forks County Farm Bureau, the farmer members of the organization declared by a vote of 526 to 7 that the proposed 25 percent tariff on lumber coming into the United States from Canada would be detrimental to their interests.

In this connection, resolutions were adopted by the executive committee of the North Dakota Farm Bureau Federation asking that congress place no tariff on lumber. These resolutions were forwarded to Washington a few days ago, as were the results of the vote taken by the Grand Forks County Farm Bureau.

DOINGS OF THE DUFFS

Helen Recovered Too Late

BY ALLMAN

LIKE MILTON.

"I'm afraid," said the left-hand editor, "that I don't see my way to printing your poetry in my periodical. You see, it's not quite the style of thing we want, though it is undoubtedly remarkable. Do you know, young man, that there are some points about your writings that resemble Milton."

"Do you think so?" cried the delighted poet. "What are they?"

"Your stanzas," replied the editor. "Indeed, your stanzas resemble the same punctuation marks!"—London. Tit-Bits.

A Strategic Move.

"I understand that your wife is doing her own cooking."

"Yes, she is."

"Oh, that was just for a little while. Doubtless she was a visit and I guess she might be had stayed long enough."—Boston Transcript.

Annoyed.

"Seems like I supply can't be satisfied," said Freddie Pete.

"Quit your job again?"

"Yes, it got on my nerves."

"What's the trouble?"

"The hours got so short that I'd no more than got interested in my work when the whistle blew for quitting time."

ONE WAY TO DO IT

"I don't see how you can afford to run an automobile."

"Easy enough. We've quit eating meat."

Palestine's Salt Mountain.

Palestine possesses a remarkable salt mountain situated at the south end of the Dead Sea. The length of the ridge is six miles, with an average width of three-quarters of a mile, and the height is not far from 900 feet. There are places where the overlying earthy deposits are many feet thick, but the mass of the mountain is composed of solid rock salt, some of which is as clear as crystal.

Give Him a Goatskin.

The professor is the goat. "It was not for nothing that I was called a goat," said Professor Gammon, the famous memory expert, as he stroked his chin in pain. "I could give young Steephead his diploma. His record as a student of my course is almost perfect."

"What is his little trouble?" asked Dr. Macken-Upp.

"He forgets to pay for his lessons."

Kindness Makes for Service.

It was once commented upon by Joseph F. Smith that wherever men are kindest to their animals, there do those animals give the best service to man. As an example, the writer cited England and Denmark, where the utmost affection and care are bestowed upon the cows, which there give freely of their milk, and the dairy industry flourishes.

Hardener of Steel.

Molybdenite, chiefly found in Tennessee, is used for a variety of purposes, and its principal value is in the manufacture of steel, to which it gives hardness and toughness that makes the steel suitable for use in propeller shafts, guns and boilers.

Reviving Picture Frames.

Often the glazing on picture frames that are otherwise good has become cracked or soiled. Buy a bottle of liquid gold and apply it to the frame. A large brush has been clipped off, remove all before retouching. Otherwise the removed surface will be uneven.

Cooling Air in Mines.

To cool the air far underground, and thereby permit the miners to work longer shifts, the owners of a European coal mine compress air at the surface of the ground and pipe it through the workings.

Telegraphing Pictures.

A French inventor's process for telegraphing pictures uses a system of hollows and reflects, the passage of a sign over which determines the intensity of the current transmitted.

No More Rudder.

A British patent has been granted for apparatus to steer vessels by pumping jets of water out of either side of the stern, thus doing away with rudders.

Use for Broken Glass.

There is a use even for broken glass. Some of it is ground into fine powderlike particles and used for various purposes. Some is melted and made into new glass objects.

Labor Saving.

A novel device which feeds tracks into position to be driven by a hammer is equipped with claws to draw carrier or anything that is to be fastened tight.

Possibly He Had.

A strange bequest was that of Jabez Hollister, an Englishman, who left a set of albatross toothpicks to his sons "in order that they might never have occasion to sit in a dentist's chair."

Nothing Like Style.

She'll take a car to ride a block if her dress is not in style. But let her don the latest frock and she'll foot it many a mile.

Going Up.

"Jenkins is getting to be something of a social climber."

"Yes, why Jenkins would even try to make his way up an icy stare!"—Cartoons Magazine.

TIME NEEDED TO MANAGE PIGEONS

Good Blood First Requisite of Homing Bird That Wins Blue Ribbons.

PATIENCE QUITE NECESSARY

Distance From Home That Bird Is Taken Must Be Increased Very Gradually—Racing Is One of Most Fascinating Sports.

To Noah must be given the honor of owning the first homing pigeon of which there is written record. Although the olive tree from which Noah's dove of peace brought a sprig to him doubtless looked fair to the bird after the weeks of close confinement on the ark, yet that marvelous instinct for its home, which is one of the chief characteristics of the homing pigeon, brought it back once more to the boat about on the face of the waters. The Egyptians, Greeks and Romans—all used the messenger pigeon in their days of power, and to day pigeon breeding, rearing, and racing forms a pleasant and interesting recreation for many people in practically all civilized countries of the world.

Starting the Bird on Its Homeward Journey.

Gallant War Services.

During the recent war, notwithstanding the use of telephones, wireless and all the methods of communication, pigeons played an invaluable and gallant part.

In the United States there is probably not a city which cannot boast of racing pigeon fanciers, while clubs and associations for the advancement and enjoyment of the fascinating sport of racing the birds are being constantly formed in Eastern, Western, and to some extent in Southern cities. Lists of homing pigeons are maintained by the United States Department of Agriculture at the government poultry farm at Beltsville, Md., and the department holds a membership in the Washington Racing Pigeon club, a branch of the American Racing Pigeon union. Many of the Washington club races during the past summer and fall have been won by Department of Agriculture birds, which number about 250.

Just what faculty enables the homing pigeon to return to its loft many miles away is a point of dispute among eminent homing-pigeon breeders. Some attribute it to remarkable instinct. Others maintain that this bird has sight so brilliant and powerful that it is able to see much farther than any other species, while there are some who claim that it is the extreme and strong attachment for home, coupled with a peculiar memory.

Training the Birds.

It is necessary to keep the birds in good condition with plenty of outdoor exercise, both in good and bad weather, if they are to have endurance for long flights. The young birds are usually hatched in February and March. During the time when the eggs are being incubated and the young are cared for, only one of a pair is trained each day. On alternate days the other is shipped to the training station. In this way the breeding is not interfered with, and the eggs or young are never left without one or the other of the old birds.

In the beginning of the training the birds are conveyed in a basket no more than six or eight blocks from their lofts to an open space away from buildings. The basket is faced toward the loft and the birds liberated at once. At this distance—pigeon specialists advise practicing them from all points of the compass. The next step is to select the route over which it is intended to fly the birds. From half a mile the distance can be increased to 1 mile, then 2, 3, 4, 5, 10, 20 and 300, until the longest distance has been reached.

Fly in Clear Weather.

Clear weather should always be selected for the birds' flights, for many birds are lost during a stormy period. Then, too, good weather is especially necessary for rapid flying.

It is considered best not to be in too great haste in having the birds fly a long distance. The young birds need the time to develop their faculties, strengthen the muscles, educate the sight, and cultivate the memory and intelligence.
